VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood, Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

ITS MEDICAL PROPERTIES ARE Alterative, Tonic, Solvent and Diuretic.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully selected barks, roots and herbs, and so strongly concentrated, that it will effectually eradicate from the system every taint of Scrofula, Scrofulous Humor, Tumors, Cancer, Cancerous Humor, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Syphilitic Diseases, Canker, Faintness at the Stomach, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. Sciatica, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout and Spinal Complaints, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For Ulcers and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Pustules, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter, Scald-head and Ring-worm, Vegetine has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

For Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Dropsy, Female Weakness, Leucorrhea, arising from internal ulceration, and Uterine diseases and General Debility, Vegetine acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs, allays inflammation, cures ulceration and regulates the bowels.

For Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache, Piles, Nervousness and General Prostration of the Nervous System, no medicine has given such perfect satisfaction as the VEGETINE. It purifies the blood, cleanses all of the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

The remarkable cures effected by Vegetine have induced many physicians and apothecaries whom we know to prescribe and use it in their own families.

In fact, Vegetine is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable blood purifier yet placed before the public.

THE BEST EVIDENCE.

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Best, Pastor of M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by physicians. Also, those suffering from the same disease. No person can doubt this testimony as there is no doubt of the curative powers of Vegetine.

NATICK, Mass., Jan. 1, 1877.

Dear Sir—We have good reason for regarding your Vegetine a medicine of the greatest value. We feel it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age; for the last two years he has suffered from necrosis of his leg, caused by scrofulous affection, and was so far reduced that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians gave us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying, two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that amputation could not save him, as he had not vigor enough to endure the operation. Just then we began giving him Vegetine, and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has resumed his studies, thrown away his crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured. He has taken about three dozen bottles of Vegetine, but lately uses but little, as he declares he is too well to be taking medicine. Resp'y

E. S. BEST AND MRS. L. C. F. BEST.

All Diseases of the Blood.

If Vegetine will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures. It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

Recommend it Heartily.

SOUTH BOSTON, Feb. 7, 1870.

MR. STEVENS:—I have taken several bottles of your Vegetine and am convinced it is a valuable remedy for Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaint, and general debility of the system. I can heartily recommend it to all suffering from the above complaints.

Resp'y, MRS. MONROE PARKER, 386 Athens Street.

THE OLD CLOCK'S SECRET.

"You shall marry Godfrey Marsh, Marcia," Mrs. Stanhope said, setting her teeth together, in that grim fashion of hers, which told that her mind was fully made up. "He is rich. He can give you a name second to none in all the country around. He can give you position and influence."

"I don't want a home, if I have got to marry for that, and nothing else. I don't care for all the position and influence Godfrey Marsh can give me, if I have got to accept him with them, I hate him. If I marry him I would not live with him a year."

"You are a foolish girl," her mother answered, sternly. "A very foolish girl. There isn't another girl in Hillbury that wouldn't jump at the chance you have. And I don't believe you will let it slip out of your hands when you think it over as a sensible girl should."

"I shall never change my mind," answered Marcia, with something of her mother's grim determination in her voice. "Never."

"You are thinking of Dick Gresham, of course," sneered Mrs. Stanhope. "He is a much more desirable fellow than Godfrey Marsh, I suppose. I infer that you would not hesitate to accept the position and influence he could give you as Mrs. Gresham?"

"I never said any thing of the kind," answered Marcia, with a rising flush. "He has never asked me to say anything of the kind, and I certainly shall wait till I am asked. Dick Gresham is an honest, respectable man, and the peer of Godfrey Marsh in every way. Godfrey Marsh's money I count out of the question entirely."

"I understand how the case stands," said Mrs. Stanhope, sternly. "I have told you before, and I repeat it again, that you understand me fully—never, with my consent, shall you marry Dick Gresham. I don't believe he cares half as much for you as you do for him. If he does he doesn't show it as most men are apt to do, and you will save a good deal of gossip if you keep your fancy for him a little more to yourself. People are not blind."

And then Mrs. Stanhope went out, and Marcia sat and thought. Those last words of her mother's might hold a good deal of truth in them. She had sometimes wondered if Dick Gresham did care for her as she acknowledged to herself that she cared for him. He was not like most men. It was not in his nature to be demonstrative. Perhaps he was waiting to be sure of his own heart—and of her regard for him. She had been with him a good deal. She had wondered more than once if he loved her. If he did, he had never told her so. She believed that he did, however.

There was a rattle of carriage wheels at the gate. She looked out with a frown gathering on her face. She knew who was there, well enough.

"Is Marcia at home?" she heard Godfrey Marsh ask her mother. "If she is, I should like to take her out for a drive this afternoon."

"Yes," she heard her mother reply. "She'll be delighted to go. I'll call her."

"I won't go," she thought, hurriedly with a little angry gesture. Then she thought better of that decision. It would offend her mother if she refused, and their life was not a very harmonious one of late. And perhaps Dick Gresham might see them, and conclude to speak out."

So she got ready and went.

While she was gone, Dick Gresham came to see her. Mrs. Stanhope met him coldly, but politely.

He inquired for Marcia.

"She has gone out to ride with Mr. Godfrey Marsh," Mrs. Stanhope answered, with an inward chuckle at the discomfited look on Dick's face.

"I am very sorry," he said, "I wanted to see her very much. I am going away this evening, and I do not know how long I shall be gone, nor how far I shall go. I wanted to say something to her before I went."

Dick knew that Mrs. Stanhope hated him. He felt it. But he was frank and honest with her.

"I can't say when she'll be back," Mrs. Stanhope said. "I think Mr. Marsh expects to stop to tea. From that, I infer they will be gone most of the afternoon."

"Yes, quite likely," answered Dick, absently. "I shall not see her, then, but I might write what I wanted to say, and leave it for you to give her."

"Yes, you could do that," she said, "you will find pen and paper in the secretary there."

"It's the best I can do," thought Dick. "I'd much rather have said it; but, if I can't do that I'll have to do the next best thing."

He wrote down what he had come to say to Marcia Stanhope, and sealed it in an envelope, upon which he wrote her name.

"If you will give it to her," he said, laying it down upon the table by Mrs. Stanhope, "you will be doing me a favor. I had rather not tell you what I have written, though perhaps you have a right to know. Marcia may tell you."

Then he said good-bye and went away.

"I have a right to know, according to his own admission," Mrs. Stanhope said, and tore away the envelope. She read his letter through carefully.

"I think fate is playing into my hands," she said grimly. "It will be quite a long time before your letter is answered, if I am not mistaken, Dick Gresham."

She went to the old clock in the corner and dropped the letter down into its mysterious depths.

"There!" she said, shutting the door upon its secret, "that is disposed of safely, I think."

The next morning she spoke up suddenly to Marcia, as they were at work in the kitchen together:

"Dick Gresham was here yesterday to see you. He said he was going away last night, and didn't know how far he was going or how long he should be gone. He has joined the engineering party going from Hillbury to the West. He told me to tell you good bye for him."

"That was all?" Marcia said it sharply, as if the words cost her a great effort. Her face was very pale.

"Yes, that was all," answered Mrs. Stanhope, busy with the milk pans.

"He never cared for me, I'm sure," Marcia whispered to her pillow that night, and then cried herself to sleep.

* * * * * * *

It was a pleasant afternoon in October when Mrs. Stanhope died. The sky was full of dreamy vagueness—a haze through which the sunshine filtered goldenly, and hid the mountains far off, and made the hills near by seem like the hill of some ghostly land. The leaves of the old chestnut by the door were dropping softly and with a slow rustle that kept time to the ticking of the old clock in the corner.

Mrs. Stanhope had been failing slowly for years. Her life had faded as the day fades; you scarcely can tell that the light is going out, but the first you know it is gone. It was so with her. The light was almost gone out, now. It only flickered for a moment; then there would be darkness.

"Marcia," she said, faintly.

"Well, mother?"

"There is something I want to tell you. I ought to have told you long ago. Dick Gresham left a letter for you when he went away. I read it and hid it in the old clock. It is there yet. When I am gone, find it and read it. But not till then, Marcia." She looked up pleading into Marcia's face.

"No, not till then," Marcia promised, with a strange feeling of expectancy, regret and anger at heart. What did that hidden letter have to say? Perhaps—and then she tried to put all thoughts of it out of her head until the time came for her to know what Dick had had to say. But she could not do that.

By and by Mrs. Stanhope said she wanted to go to sleep. Marcia arranged her pillows, and the sick woman closed her eyes wearily.

She slept long and well, for she never woke again.

The funeral was over. And then came that awful sense of desolation which follows "after the burial." Whoever has passed through this experience of life can never forget the dreary lonesomeness, the solemn silence that is about the house. The world seems to have stopped for a little time.

Tick, tick! the old clock kept repeating that night and Marcia went to it to solve the mystery it held. She took off the old door, and removed the curiously carved front. In the bottom covered with the dust of fifteen years, she found the letter she had never known of for so long.

She read it through with a curious blending of pleasure to know that Dick had loved her, and bitter regret for what she lost. If she had only known then! Now her life must go on as it had gone so long, but she would have it to think of that he had loved her.

She laid her head down against the old clock and cried softly. His love would have been so sweet, it would have made life so pleasant. But it was lost. It had been lost for fifteen long years.

There was a knock at the door. She got up drying her eyes hastily, and went to admit her visitor, hardly conscious of what she was doing, but acting more from force of habit than anything else.

A man sood on the threshold.

"Marcia," he said, and held out his hand. "You don't know me, I guess. I am Dick Gresham. I came back today. I heard of your mother's death, and I knew you'd be lonesome, and I thought perhaps you'd be glad to see an old friend, so I made bold to come."

"Oh, Dick, Dick!" she cried, and then broke down in true woman fashion. "I wonder what sent you here tonight? I have just found the letter you wrote and left for me before you went away. I never knew there had been one until three days ago. You can't blame me for not writing as you asked me to, Dick," and then the face of this woman, whose years were thirty-five, and out of whose heart you would have supposed all girlish romance had fled, grew suddenly hot with sweet shame to think what her words meant.

"God sent me, I guess," he said, with great gladness in his face, and he caught her to his heart and kissed her. "I am sure you loved me, Marcia, but the letter I looked for never came, and I thought your mother had got you to think as she did. So I gave up hoping for that which I took it for granted I had lost, and I stayed away because there was nothing to draw me back here. A month ago I got it in my head that I wanted to see Hillbury again, and I came back. They told me that you were Marcia Stanhope yet, and I think that set me to hoping a little. You see, it's hard to give up hoping in the first place; but not much to set a man to hoping again, after he thinks he's given it up, for he can't forget."

And so, after fifteen years, the old clock gave its secret up, and two hearts came together to never be parted more.

EARLY GARDENING.

"You see," said Mr. Middlerib, that was along in the early part of March, "there cannot be any cold weather after this that will amount to anything. The sun has too much power, it is too far north, and the divergence of the parallax is by this time too heterodox to be overcome by the occultation of the diocesan phalanges, so that the binocular influences which permeate the dynoid catheg eses are powerless to reduce the prevailing temperature. Spring is here, and it is time to begin ornamental gardening."

Mrs. Middlerib was silenced, as much by the learning of her husband as by the summery balminess of the day, and withdrew in silence. Mr. Middlerib marked out a bed for verbenas, right under the bay window, and be spaded it up, much delighted to find that the frost was entirely out of the ground, and that the soil was a warm, rich gravel, for the most part, with here and there a trace of an old shoe or a piece of flint as large as a cabbage. He toiled patiently enough, digging up richer dirt in the back yard and carrying it in a coal-bucket to replace the unpromising constituents of the verbena bed. It was awful on his back, but he thought of floral beauties that would reward his labor, and toiled on. He raked that bed until the dirt was as fine as sifted flour, and then he planted the seeds, while Mrs. M. looked on in deep anxiety. "We will have the start of the whole hill," he said, "by three or four weeks." When the tea bell rang he left the spad and the rake on the ground and went in.

Next morning he went out and tried to pick up the rake, but he broke the handle off before he could accomplish that simple feat, and then he couldn't. He worked at the spade until his fingers were numbed as death, clear up to his neck, and then gave it up in despair. The ground was frozen about fourteen inches deep and he couldn't scratch the top of his verbena bed with a diamond. The Middleribs sat down to breakfast that morning in gloomy silence; the cheery ment of incense-breathing morn was about as cheery as the cholera returns of 1849. The old gentleman was depressed, and his brief family is a collection of models of decorum when the old man is "that way."

Well, he ordered another cord of wood for the heating stove and gave over his floricultural talk for that day. But the next morning it was warm enough to roast an ox whole. "What did I tell you?" said Mr. Middlerib, joyfully, and he went out and waited for the ground to get soft enough to dig in. The minute the mud was sufficiently pliable to mix he stirred it up and hoarsely ordered Mrs. M. to "bring out them gladiolus bulbs." They were brought and duly interred. Then he quit work for that day, but sat in the sun waiting to see the gladiolus and verbenas come up, and deciding where he would put in the Swan River daisies and pansies. The next morning there was five inches of snow on the ground and more coming, but it did not spoil anybody's breakfast. "I'm glad to see this," Mr. Middlerib said, encouragingly. "It will keep the ground warm, and by the time it melts away the things will be ready to pop right up." And he smiled, oh! so cheerfully. You have seen men smile just as cheerfully under similar circumstances and know just how cheerful he appeared.

Well, it snowed three days, and then it came on very cold, and the next day it turned warm, and that night it set in to rain, a hard, deluging, warm spring rain. "Ah," said Mr. Middlerib, delightedly, "the snow will go off with this." And, indeed, that very night sixteen inches of snow went off like an avalanche and carried off a made verbena bed and a gladiolus bed, leaving an excellent substratum of gravel and bowlders. It also carried with it a hoe, a new rake, a new spade, a wheelbarrow, several yards of picket-fence, and a section of plank sidewalk. Mr. Middlerib has since made a contract for having his entire lot sodded about the middle of April. He says that flower-beds destroy the beauty of a yard, interrupting the velvety stretch of greensward with blotches of garish color.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

HOW DO YOU SWEAR?—The witness had served in one of the Indiana regiments and come home from the wars with both arms shot off. He lost one arm at Fort Donaldson and the other at Lookout Mountain. When he came forward to testify the clerk commenced to administer the oath.

"You solemnly swear—"

"Stop! stop!" interrupted the Judge (newly installed) with overpowering dignity. "The witness will hold up his right hand when he is sworn."

"Your Honor," replied the clerk meekly, "the man has no right hand."

"Then let him hold up his left hand."

"If your Honor will remember, the witness has no left hand either. He had the misfortune to lose them both in battle."

Perhaps the clerk thought by this last bit of information to bring the Judge down from his height of displeasure, but he reckoned without his host.

"Then tell him to hold up his right leg. A witness cannot be sworn in this court without holding up something. Silence! all of you! This court knows the law and will maintain it."

The witness was sworn on one leg.

NOTHING can be more absurd than the idea that "looking guilty" proves "guilty." An honest man charged with crime is much more likely to blush at the accusation than the real offender, who is generally prepared for the event, and has his face "ready made" for the occasion. The very thought of being suspected of anything criminal will bring the blood to the innocent man's cheek nine times out of ten.

THE ENGLISH TONGUE.

1. The English tongue is a tongue. This fact, denied in some parts of Pennsylvania, is nevertheless well established. The English is a distinct language. It is an old tongue, its root reaching far back into the throat of distant ages and the body of the language of the Angles back where we cannot penetrate. It had its latest origin in Anglia, a corner of Schleswig, whence it was brought to England by those stout Northmen, who came to the relief of the Britons in their struggles against the Picts and Scots. Egbert gave it its name when he proclaimed himself rex gentis Anglorum, and made his country, Angleland, whence England. It is a branch of the Gothic family and a twin sister of the German. The soul and blood of the English as now spoken in England is the same as was spoken by the Angles, Saxons and Jutes, on the north coast of Germany, and there is a very close relationship and sympathy existing between the German and English. There are two dialects in the Gothic original still spoken in Germany, the high German and the Platt Deutsch, the latter of which is nearer to the English so that the English is more easily acquired by those whose native tongue is Platt Deutsch. Luther made the high German the language of his country's court and literature by translating the Bible into it.

2. The English tongue has a tough life. It has maintained its identity through centuries of time and change. It has come into contact with the Roman language, and while it enriched its vocabulary it maintained its identity. It touched against the Celtic in the British isles, and while it took up and retained some of its vigorous expressions, it preserved itself distinct and overbore the Celtic. In the Norman conquest, at the close of the eleventh century, it suffered from the French importation and was remitted entirely to the common people; French being made the court language and Latin the church tongue. For 300 years it sustained this relation. It had no literature and was only preserved in the songs and by the bards of the people. From this period date many dual forms of expressing the same idea or object—preserving the Norman and Saxon characteristics of the language, as in the words beef and ox, veal and calf, mutton and sheep, venison and deer. At the time of the restoration, Charles II. brought to the English people from his experience of fashion and follies at the French court, a fresh importation of the French language. And yet with all these disadvantages the English maintained itself and only added to its rich vocabulary by its contact with other tongues. It is remarkable how pure it is under these circumstances, as for example a lengthy extract from Caxton, published in 1774, shows only a single word not in common use at present.

3. The English tongue is a rich tongue. Of the four great epics of the world's literature, the Iliad, the Æneid, the Inferno and Paradise Lost, the English poet's work, is inferior to none. Shakespeare, the poet of all ages, "the thousand-souled," Ben Johnson and Samuel Johnson, a long line of poets and writers beginning with Chaucer and Spencer and running down to our own Longfellow and Irving had enriched and shaped and perpetuated the beauties and vigor of the language.

4. The English tongue is worthy of study. It takes rank with the Latin and Greek in this respect. It is worthy of culture—a process far beyond the educating influences of such necessary evils as the grammar and dictionary. These must exist, they are rules, but they must not be allowed to become fetters. We must go back of them and acquire the genius and spirit of the language, of which they are at best only the modified and formalized outgrowth. The English language is best studied in the best specimens of English classic composition.

5. This tongue is so precious that it should be guarded against the dangers to which it is exposed. One of these consists of the free practice, especially among newspaper writers, to import Latin words to suit occasions, so that frequently long paragraphs contain scarcely any vestiges of original English, a fault which educated men should avoid. Good English should be cultivated in the class room and family. Indulgence in false phraseology, toleration of slang and slovenliness of speech create faults which are never got rid of and mar rare conversational and oratorical powers. All faults of idiom and pronunciation should be pruned off. The flimsy stuff that floats on the current of popular literature should be avoided. A half dozen tongues may be mastered by the scholar, but if only one is to be acquired thoroughly, let it be the English. A careful study of its best masters, a readiness in its use, an acquisition of its richness and an armament of its strength will give the possessor the mightiest weapon touching the practical life of man.—Dr. E. V. Gerhart.

AN Egyptian mummy was presented by the American Consul at Cairo to the Philadelphia museum. A crowd was one day about the case, and was startled by a voice from amid the multitudinous linen folds.

"Open the box! open the box!" said the voice.

"Who are you?" asked one visitor, more venturesome than the rest.

"I'm a descendant of the Pharaohs," answered the voice.

"What do you want?"

"Ask yourself. Your confounded Yankee curiosity has waked me up from the sleep of ages. Open the box!"

"What's your name?"

"Signor Blitz," answered the voice, and the great ventriloquist made himself known.

An Express Robbery That Eclipses Anything on Record.

PITTSBURGH, March 14.—A well-planned and skillfully-executed express robbery was perpetrated in this city last night. Superintendent Bingham, of the express company, gives the following particulars this evening: Yesterday afternoon, when the Buffalo express south reached Brady's Bend, a telegram was handed Thomas Bingham, express messenger, which instructed him to transfer his packages, &c., to J. H. Brooks at Templeton and return to Parkersburg Landing and wait orders. This was dated Pittsburgh, and signed George Bingham, superintendent. Templeton is a small station on the Allegheny Valley railroad, fifty miles from this city. The Buffalo express south and train going north, meet there and stop for supper. On the arrival of the train at Templeton, a man stepped into the express car and told Messenger Bingham he was ordered to relieve him and take his run to Pittsburgh. Mr. Bingham asked him for his instructions, and he produced a telegram addressed to J. H. Brooks to relieve Bingham at Templeton, and bring the express matter to Pittsburgh. This was also signed George Bingham, superintendent. Bingham, after the transfer to Brooks, took the north train to Parker's, and Brooks came to this city in charge of the express car. At the depot in this city his goods were checked off correctly, and he got in the wagon with the driver to deliver the goods and report at the general office on Fifth Avenue. The robbery was committed in the wagon between the depot and office. He jumped from the wagon unnoticed by the driver when less than half a square from the office. The safe was found open, and money packages amounting to $1,000 missing, when delivered at the office. Brooks cut the railroad telegraph wire this side of Templeton, drew the wire into a watch-house, and there with a pocket instrument he sent the bogus messages which operated so successfully.

HOW SIR WALTER SCOTT WROTE "THE ANTIQUARY."—Sir Adam Ferguson passed a morning with Scott at Abbotsford, which at that time was still unfinished, and swarming with carpenters, painters, masons and brick layers, was surrounded with all the dirt and disorderly discomfort inseparable from the process of house building. The room they sat in was in the roughest condition which admitted of their occupying it at all; the raw, new chimney smoked intolerably. Out of doors the whole place was still one chaos of bricks, mortar, scaffolding, tiles and slates. A heavy mist shrouded the whole landscape, and distilled in a cold, persistent, dumb drizzle. Maida, the well beloved stag hound, kept fidgeting in and out of the room—Walter Scott every five minutes exclaiming, "Eh, Adam! the puir brute's just worrying to get out!" or, "Eh, Adam! the puir creature's just crying to come in!" when Sir Adam would open the door to the raw, chilly air, for the wet, muddy hound's exit or entrance, while Scott, with his face swollen with a grievous toothache, and one hand pressed hard to his cheek, with the other was writing the inimitably humorous opening chapters of "The Antiquary," which he passed across the table, sheet by sheet, to his friend, saying, "Now, Adam, d'ye think that'll do?" Such a picture of mental triumph over outward circumstances has surely seldom been surpassed; house-builders, smoky chimney, damp draughts, restless, dripping dog, and toothache, form a "concatenation" of exteriorities little favorable to literary composition of any sort.

ANECDOTES concerning the late Gen. Changarnier abound. One story, which is told of his behavior when he was a subaltern, shows him to have been, at that time, rather a chivalrous friend than a young man with a sense of justice and a regard for general propriety. He and two comrades had been dining together; and they had dined so well that one of the comrades, overcome with wine and the heat of a discussion which ensued, lost his head, and struck Changarnier, who turned deadly pale and felt that he must fight somebody. But he was far too generous to fight his intoxicated friend. He left the room without saying a word, went into a neighboring coffee house where the students of the place were wont to assemble, and administered a couple of cuffs to the first unoffending student he came across, and, when swords were drawn, followed this outrage up with a severe wound in the shoulder. He then returned to his friend, who had no recollection of anything that had occurred, and said to him, "What a bore you are! You've obliged me to run a poor devil through the shoulder who never did anything to me. It's perfectly ridiculous." And so the two embraced, and no more was said.

HAVE you enemies? Go straight on, and mind them not. If they block up your path, walk around them, and do your duty regardless of their spite. A man who has no enemies is seldom good for anything; he is made of that kind of material which is so easily worked, that every one has a hand in it. A sterling character—one who thinks for himself, and speaks what he thinks—is always sure to have enemies. They are as necessary to him as fresh air; they keep him alive and active. A celebrated character, who was surrounded with enemies, used to remark—"They are sparks which, if you do not blow, will go out of themselves." Let this be your feeling while endeavoring to live down the scandal of those who are bitter against you. If you stop to dispute, you do but as they desire, and open the way for more abuse. Let the poor fellows talk; there will be a reaction if you perform but your duty, and hundreds who were once alienated from you will flock to you and acknowledge their error.—Alexander's Messenger.

THE peach was originally a poisonous almond. In olden times its fleshy parts were used to poison arrows, and was for this purpose introduced into Persia. The transportation and cultivation not only removed its poisonous properties, but produced the delicious fruit which we now enjoy in its season.

"So there's another rupture of Mount Vociferous," said Mrs. Partington, as she put down the paper and put up her specs. "The paper tells us about the burning lather running down the mountain, but it don't tell how it got on fire."

THE MAN WITH A PLASTER ON HIS NOSE.—One day last week a Newark chap walked down Broad street, with a plaster on his nose, and the following criticisms were passed upon him by his fellow citizens within the short distance between Central avenue and Market street:

"Nice looking rooster, that is."

"Been on a fearful spree and barked his nose on a lamp-post."

"You always know a man by his nose."

"Been sassin' his wife and got hit over the snoot with a steam pan."

"Tried to come it over some fellow and got whaled, and served him right."

"Got a lager beer nose and trying to hide it."

"Must have blowed fearful hard on that horn to burst it that way."

"That fellow's carrying a plaster advertisement dodge, but the thing won't work."

"Believe that man ain't got no sore nose at all. He's altered his appearance for something or other, and the police ought to spot him."

"Nice old rum blossom that is; if I had it I'd stay in the house and not be seen by anybody."

And yet the subject of all these uncharitable remarks got his nose skinned trying to get into a crowded revival meeting.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.—"Did you ever see such singular weather?" is a query worn threadbare in this city. No one ever did, but there are lots of men who take comfort in trying to spoil a sunny day by predicting the worst March weather for forty years. Yesterday noon when a man on the post office corner said he felt sure spring was at hand, along came one of the growlers and put in:

"If we don't have a foot of snow in March then you can call me a fool!"

"I don't know as I run this weather any more than you do," slowly continued the first, "but my share of it is going to be warm and nice, and I can lick you in just one minute."

He pulled off his overcoat, spit on his hands, and demanded:

"Now, then, what's your share of the weather going to be?"

The other hesitated, looked in vain for a policeman, and replied: "I wan't it hoter'n blazes."

"All right, then," said the other, as he put on his coat, "I'm going to walk this town and encourage an early spring, and when I meet a man who sighs for snow I'm going to drop my fist on his left ear. Hooray for strawberries and string-beans!"

NOBODY need grieve for Mr. Tilden. He fought against one hundred thousand office-holders, the intrenched Rings of the Republican party, and the millions of money at their command; he was assailed with violence and followed with lies; the army was used against him, and the negroes were rallied to the aid of the Fraudulent party. But the people gave him a handsome majority of the Electoral Colleges, two hundred and fifty thousand majority of all the votes and one million majority of the white votes, triumphantly electing him their President. Surely there is no cause for mourning in this, but for rejoicing at so complete a victory and so great a vindication of popular suffrage. The mourning should be because the minority succeeded by fraud in depriving him of his office, and that all men, of whatever party, who pretend to respect justice and equity do not feel themselves outraged by such a result.—N. Y. Sun.

THE action of the Louisiana returning board in 1874 was arbitrary and illegal. We denounced it then; we denounce it now. We have nothing to take back. The Tribune was right then. But is it wrong now? Republican administration in Louisiana has been corrupt and imbecile. We do not attempt to conceal our contempt for Gov. Wells and his fellow tricksters. They are politicians of the most dangerous type. Their tools and associates are like unto them. They have worn the livery of the Republican party, but have done the service of greed.—N. Y. Tribune.

The newspaper that denounces Wells and his associate knaves with shocking cant in one breath, in the very next exults in the villainous triumph which secures a Fraudulent President. Base as is the crime of Wells a lower depth is reached by the hypocrites who demurely denounce him while clutching the fruits which he gathered.—Patriot.

SHOOTING DOGS IN CLEVELAND.—The Cleveland Leader says a well-known resident of that city owned a dog that he very much desired to be rid of. On the advice of a friend, he took it to the Central Station and asked if the officers would be so kind as to permanently stop its appetite by dosing it with lead.

The officer on duty straightened up. "My dear sir," said he, "we will do it on this condition: That no mention of the affair goes into the Leader. We are tired of rackets on the dog business."

The gentleman agreed, and led his dog to the back yard, where he was tied to a stake. He then retired, just as he saw a man with a rifle come out the side door, ready for action.

As he went down the front steps he heard a "bang," a yell and then all was silence.

He went home happy—and on the front doorstep saw his faithful dog, a little hot about the neck, and minus the upper part of his left ear.

AT an auction of household articles on Griswold street, yesterday, the auctioneer held up a thermometer and pleaded for a bid. No one seemed to want it, and he turned to a farmer-looking man and said:

"Take it, examine it, and give me a quarter for it."

"No—no," replied the man, backing off.

"What! Don't you want a thermometer?"

"No, sir; I had one a year or two ago, and I worked, and fooled around, and fooled around and I could never keep it regulated worth a cent. Hang it, I couldn't even open the onery thing!"

A GIRL discovered her young brother out behind the shed, the other day, pulling away at a sweet fern cigar.

"There, young man!" she exclaimed, as the cigar hastily disappeared behind the boy's back; "I'll tell your father on you—see if I don't."

"Yes, you tell 'im," retorted the brother suddenly recovering himself; "you tell 'im an' se how quick that feller o' yourn'll skip. I'll tell father how you an' 'im was sittin' on the parlor sofy, an' him huggin' you like blazes. You jes go and tell, that's all I ask."

The sister very discreetly withdrew, while the young statesman finished his smoke in tranquility.

A FARMER who had sent a bale of cotton to a warehouse instructed a merchant to have the same sold. The merchant complied with the request, and the staple was disposed of. THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1877.

HAYES still halts.

THE Senate adjourned on Saturday—and Kellogg's case went over.

SECRETARY McCRARY has made a bad start. He has appointed his brother-in-law to be his private secretary.

THE bloody shirt organs are playing around Hayes' Southern policy about as gently as a man plays around the heels of a kicking mule.

A LOAD has been lifted off of many a Republican heart by the announcement of Key, Hayes's Postmaster General, that in making his appointments to office Republicans will be preferred.

IF Mr. Hayes could devise a plan of reform which would be certain to exclude from office a man not elected, he would do something which would commend itself to general approbation.

IT is rumored that Hayes will arrest Grant for sedition, because the latter said: "No man worthy of the office of President would be willing to hold it if counted in or placed there by fraud."

THE Democratic success in the first congressional district of New Hampshire is assured. The margin is narrow, about 50 votes, but sufficient to make still firmer the Democratic majority in the next House.

PROSCRIPTIVE STILL.—New Hampshire has again refused to abolish the religious test, the Republicans voting solidly against the proposed amendment. Know Nothingism must still be an "Institution" in that State.

STANLEY MATTHEWS thinks that "in the recognition of the state governments the federal government exercises political and not judicial power." In other words the interests of the party are to be preferred to the claims of justice.

SCHURZ is credited with having done a great deal of mischief to the Republican party when he was opposed to it, but the St. Louis Globe-Democrat is of the opinion that he will do it a great deal more mischief holding office with it.

GENERAL HAMPTON is right. A new election would be an insult to the people of South Carolina and the governor whom they have not only elected and installed, but whom the courts and police respect as the only lawful head of the state government.

THE Richmond Enquirer says: "If Mr. Hayes' policy is dictated by a true and patriotic desire to restore the South, it must be a broader one than that of giving our people office. We are not children to forget our ills over a few bon-bons."

THE President has appointed and the Senate confirmed Fred. Douglass as marshal of the District of Columbia. The bar association protested, and even many of his own color opposed Fred. as a "chronic office-seeker," but Hayes stuck to his choice.

IT is perfectly evident why Hayes proposes to oust Packard. It is because Packard was the main factor in the process which made Hayes President, and the process is so disreputable that the factors have to be outlawed even by those in whose interest they acted.

MR. ADAMS, clerk of the national House of Representatives, says there will be a majority of twenty-five on prima-facie papers, in the next House, for the Democrats, and the talk about the Republicans capturing the organization of that body is simply counting without their host.

FIVE hundred thousand dollars for the Hon. Madison Wells, under cover of a "war claim," is big wages, if the whole amount is to be absorbed by the Hon. Madison; but if it is to be divided up among his pals and accepted as a full equivalent for the job of counting in a Fraudulent President, it's dog cheap.

IT is rumored that an occasional disagreement has arisen between the Buckeye Brothers who have the Fraudulent President in their keeping. What with the advice of Brother John on the one hand, and the advice of Brother William on the other, the amiable Hayes often halts as pensive and puzzled as Balaam's ass.

MR. LOGAN once told a story of the intrepid hunter who secured a "tallholt" on an immense bear and shortly afterward was heard bellowing for help. "What do you want help for?" inquired a comrade. "I want some one to help me let go of this bear," replied the hunter. Mr. Hayes evidently wants some one to help him let go of Packard and Chamberlain.

THE situation in Louisiana is beginning to look warlike again. Gov. Nicholls having decided to proceed by due course of law to eject Packard and his confederates from the State House, Packard is gathering his colored militia for the purpose of getting up a fight. Several of his recruiting officers were arrested by the Nicholls police on Monday evening.

FRANK BIRD remarks:—I would say to every Democrat, "Never recognize politically, officially or judicially the President who comes into power by such manifest fraud. Never accept an office under the incoming administration, from the Cabinet downwards. If I could get the ear of our Southern brethren I would pray them beware of the Greeks bearing presents."

IF Mr. Hayes imagines that the triumph he achieved in securing the confirmation of his Cabinet, was an end to the dissensions in his party, we incline to the opinion that he will be greatly disappointed. The war inaugurated last week must go on. It is as inevitable as death. Nothing can stop it. The spoilsmen who elected him are not going to be cheated out of their prey.

THE New York Nation says: "When people ask him (Mr. Hayes) not to be so base as 'to abandon the Southern Republicans,' let him inquire in a sober, American way what that means. He is not a Czar or a Kaiser. He cannot send troops hither and thither to 'succor struggling nationalities' or set downtrodden parties on their legs. He can succor nobody except through law. He is not a special Providence; he is the President of the United States, or in other words, the creature of law." Right. Let the people rule and the country get back to the old Democratic idea of government—the law. But can a fraudulent President bring about such a state of things? Never! He starts wrong.

FOR bold and brazen rascality Republican politicians beat the world. Another illustration was furnished in the House of Representatives at Harrisburg on Monday night. A special session, ordered for the reception of petitions, &c., was opened and some business transacted, when Speaker Meyer retired and called the notorious Harry Huhn, of Philadelphia, to the chair.

Mr. Bullard offered the following:

Resolved, That when this House adjourns this evening it adjourns to meet in ten minutes thereafter for the purpose of considering House bill 162 on third reading and final passage. (This is the bill to prohibit sheriffs in cities of the first class (Philadelphia) from appointing deputies to be present at any election polls.)

The wildest excitement ensued upon the reading of this resolution. The Democrats were surprised and indignant at this attempt to override the rules of the House. Mr. Scholl advanced to the front of the speaker's desk and said, "Mr. Speaker, remember that your reputation is at stake in this matter. Did the speaker place you in the chair to do a wrong that he was afraid to commit?"

A dozen or more members crowded the front of the speaker's desk and demanded that the rules of the House be observed. Mr. Crawford raised the point of order that under rule 50 the resolution must lie over one day. The speaker ruled the point not well taken. Another scene of excitement ensued upon this ruling, members jumped upon their desks and gesticulated wildly, but their voices were drowned in the general confusion. When quiet was partially restored Messrs. Schnatterly and Faunce appealed from the decision of the chair. Upon motion of Mr. Douglass, of Philadelphia, the appeal was laid upon the table by a party vote. The previous question was called by the Republicans and the clerk proceeded to call the roll. It was impossible to hear answers of members when their names were called, a dozen or more answering at once, so the clerk put down the names as he thought they voted and the speaker announced the question, shall the main question now be put, as carried. Upon the question shall the resolution be adopted, the yeas and nays were called. As before the noise and confusion prevented the answers of members being heard, but the resolution was declared carried by 110 yeas to 89 nays.

McClure's Times, which so delighted in ridiculing and denouncing a Democratic House, feels constrained to give Meyer and Huhn a "notice," and does it in this fashion:

"The retirement of Speaker Meyer from the chair of the House last night, evidently for the purpose of allowing the body to commit a parliamentary outrage so indecent and revolutionary that he was ashamed to be a party to it himself, was simply adding sheer cowardice to the deliberate prostitution of a legislative body to the meanest tricks of the meanest petty partisans. It was a wanton, ineffaceable disgrace, and one that Mr. Meyer cannot escape responsibility for by skulking behind the scenes. He knew that there was no rule of the House that made it possible to consider the bill relative to the Sheriff of Philadelphia last night without a suspension of the rules by a two-thirds vote, and he knew that it was intended to force the passage of a violent and more than questionable partisan bill, in insolent contempt of the well-settled and to him well known rules which he is sworn to enforce; and his surrender of the chair to a Philadelphia member, whose conduct would be most charitably explained by the plea of temporary insanity or bewildering intoxication, was only heightened in its infamy by the second-handedness of the crime. The bill in itself is of little moment, and will harm the party that passed it more than the party that is defeated in its passage, for it is one of the shapeless after-births of Pilgrim ballot-stuffing travail; but the disgrace to the House of Representatives, charged with the direct care of the interests of a most intelligent people, is immeasurable. It is an open, defiant declaration that the very fountain of law is filled with a lawless rabble, and that of the whole majority party there was not one with sufficient manliness to resent the brand of shame that Mr. Huhn, as the pitiable agent of a few desperate tricksters, branded upon the brow of every Republican member."

WHEN the Fraudulent President undertakes to use the money, credit, or bonds of the United States to purchase Southern support for his Administration, he will find himself in a strait where no casting vote by Joe Bradley can be invoked to help him. Congress, we presume, will not delegate the power of making appropriations to a partisan Commission, as it did the duty of counting the electoral votes; and so long as one House remains faithful to the people, the proposed system of bribery can never be inaugurated. In the mean time John Sherman will continue to make money, Evarts will write his despatches of two sentences each, Schurz will get the Interior into hopeless confusion, Hayes will sink into his natural insignificance, Jim Blaine will rally the remnant of the Republican party with the old whoop of sectional hatred, and the trading politicians of the South, who are now so eager for this disreputable business under the thin guise of duty to a prostrate people, will discover about next December that they have sold themselves for just nothing to a fraud, who is imbecile because he is a fraud.

It seemed to reasoning men as if Mr. Hayes might have had enough to do to run his Administration quietly and without any violent new departures, considering that he had against him a million majority of white voters who were swindled out of their chosen President; but now that he has begun by making a square, irreconcilable issue with the body of his own party, white and black, he must sink rapidly and deep. As the New York Sun predicts, the fraud will prove a failure, and "the overflowing scourge" is rising faster than most people think.

MANY years ago, when the Republicans had overwhelming sway in both branches of Congress, and there were indications of a close House thereafter, a wild partisan act was passed giving the clerk of the House absolute control of every disputed seat pending the election of a speaker, and Clerk McPherson, while keeping within reasonable bounds in his construction of the law, naturally resolved doubts in favor of his party. The emergency of a close House or a very small or doubtful Republican majority, the fears of which made the dominant party commit the folly of passing such a dangerous law, never arose to enable the authors of the measure to reap its fruits; but now when the power of the House has passed over to the Democrats, the emergency arises on the other side, and the partisan Republican chickens sent out long ago are about to come flopping back to roost at home just when they are least wanted by their friends.—Times.

IN old times it was said that you could always tell after election day who was not elected. In this campaign no particular light was thrown upon this question.—Bob Ingersoll.

In the "old times" Grantism had not corrupted the politics of the country, and neither Mad Wells's Returning Board nor Joe Bradley's Electoral Commission had been invented. But it was not for lack of light that the White House is now occupied by a Fraudulent President. The evidence taken by the House committees made clear the fact that Hayes was defeated in November by a decisive majority both of the popular and the electoral vote. This light does not fade. Col. Bob may rest easy in his mind about one thing, viz., that Allunde Joe and the Returning Boards will not get a chance to reverse a Presidential election in this country again very soon.

ONE OF KEY'S APPOINTMENTS REVOKED BY HAYES.

Southern Republicans Protesting against Giving the Post Offices to Ex-Confederates—Some Emphatic Objections from Tennessee.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Postmaster-General Key has made his first slip and met his first snub. Hayes has peremptorily revoked one of his Southern appointments already. A Federal soldier, John F. Wilson, has been for some time Postmaster at Lynchburg, Va. Wilson lost an arm and an eye in the war, and was badly knocked to pieces generally. Key displaced him and appointed a Confederate from Tennessee, who had just reached Lynchburg and had to ask his way to the Post Office. Wilson came to Washington, laid his remaining arm and eye along with his case before Hayes. Hayes peremptorily revoked Key's appointment. Wilson has gone back to his Post Office, and the Tennessean has asked his way home.

Jorgenson, Postmaster at Petersburg, and the only Republican Congressman elected from Virginia, has been succeeded in the Post Office at Petersburg by an ex-Confederate; and as the district is Republican and the town is Republican, a pretty strong delegation of Union men has come up here to protest against what they are pleased to call an outrage.

Two more appointments made through Key's influence bid fair to make still greater trouble, and they may not be confirmed, although it is probable that they will be, as all the Democrats will vote for them. The nominations in question are Mike J. Waldron of Memphis for United States Marshal of the Western district of Tennessee, and Sam P. Evans, United States Marshall for the Eastern District of the same State. These men are both Democrats and are both objectionable in the extreme to the Tennessee Republicans. Representative Thornburgh says that Waldron is an Irish ward politician who never held any position better than conductor on a street car. There are plenty of good men in the Republican party in Tennessee, he says, and he thinks it hard that the President should ignore them. Several attempts have been made at different times by the Republicans in Tennessee to get up fusion movements, but he says in such cases the Republicans have invariably been cheated, and he believes they will be cheated in this case. He says that if this kind of appointments is to be made, the Republicans of Tennessee will simply stay away from the polls when election day comes.

POOR RELATIONS OF THE NEW FIRM.—David M. Key, the Postmaster-General of the Fraudulent President, is said to be a distant relative of Mrs. Hayes. He is the father of thirteen children, is poor in the world's goods, and has had a struggle to make the two ends meet at the close of the year, in that part of Tennessee where money is scarce and lawyers' fees are often paid in kind. The salary of $8,000 a year had an attraction for his slender purse which proved to be irresistible.

In fact, we learn that he was in correspondence with Hayes's managers at Washington about a place in the Cabinet before the Electoral Commission had completed their dishonest work. These letters are published now to prove what is called his conservatism; but, stripped of cant, they only show a desire to strike a bargain in advance, and to accept the foreshadowed fraud as a means of personal advancement. He is in no sense a representative man, and never was so considered.

Mr. Richard W. Thompson will be welcomed back to Washington by a good many old friends, who, as it is well understood, have not found his autographs to be a very profitable investment, and who, with sublime patience, have waited during the weary years since he left Congress, for fortune to smile on him and them. If John Sherman, the millionaire Secretary of the Treasury, who "invented Hayes" and made his Cabinet, was inclined to do the handsome thing, he would square the debts of all his colleagues, and start the new Administration free from the calls of hungry creditors—says the N. Y. Sun.

WHATEVER consolation the organs of the administration can find, in proclaiming that the Democratic campaign was a series of blunders and the candidacy of Gov. Tilden a mistake, they are welcome to. A campaign and a candidate which secured nearly 300,000 majority on a popular vote, and an actual majority of the electoral votes which could only be turned into an apparent minority by the most gigantic fraud ever committed, and then only into a minority of one, can safely be left to history.—Detroit Free Press.

THE Baltimore American speaks of the Republican party as the party of law and decency! When? Where? Is fraud, law or Presidency stealing decency? The party of law and decency! The party of fraud and government grabbing; of Eliza Pinkston and Mad. Wells; the party of Belknap and Secor Robeson; the party of Credit Mobilier and Smiler Colfax! In short, the party of Returning Board Hayes.—Mail.

THE South Carolina case is less troublesome than that of Louisiana.—Washington Letter.

It is. Hayes was counted in President by the same Returning Board that counted Packard in Governor, and for Hayes to decide that Packard is a Fraudulent Governor is to decide that he himself is a Fraudulent President. That's all the trouble about the Louisiana case.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin makes this point: "It is a little odd to observe that the sham-reform papers, which used to denounce Grant's officeholders as a lot of worthless and depraved politicians, are now praising President Hayes as a civil-service reformer, although he keeps nearly all of Grant's men in office and expresses a purpose to do so unless plain cause of removal should be shown."

THE Radicals hated Andy Johnson with a red-hot hatred and denounced his adherents in unmeasured terms. Now Hayes has put one of Johnson's Cabinet officers at the head of his Cabinet and made him chief among one hundred thousand office holders! It is not often a President puts a blister on the back of his own party so soon.

THE Democrats of the Legislature have resolved to defeat all appropriation bills unless the Republicans in the Senate defeat the Sheriff's Deputies bill.

STANLEY MATTHEWS and Don Cameron were elected United States Senators from Ohio and Pennsylvania on Tuesday.

HAYES's policy of smiling in all political directions is obvious enough, but experience is against the success of political coquettes.—N. Y. Sun.

DISASTER, and disaster only, can attend the efforts of Hayes, to make a conglomerate party.—N. Y. Sun.

ANECDOTES AND HUMORS OF SCHOOL LIFE. Edited by AARON SHEELY. Philadelphia: Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger.

A copy of this work, by our townsman, is before us. As indicating its aim and scope we quote from the brief but sufficient preface:

"No department of human employment or effort, perhaps, is more rich in anecdote and incident than the school-room, and none certainly in which judiciously chosen illustrations can be more effectively used. The present volume is therefore offered to teachers and students in the hope that its many illustrative examples may be useful in helping to enforce and impress the daily lessons of the school room, and in the hope, also, that its facetiæ may afford innocent entertainment for the intervals of respite from severer school work."

As further stated, the contents "have been culled from many sources, and are the result of a varied and extended course of reading and correspondence." The book is very readable and engaging, and is destined to a wide popularity not only among teachers and school people, but the general public as well. It is printed with clear type on good paper, and tastefully bound.

COURT.—The case of Josephus Roland vs. A. F. Gitt, on trial as we went to press last week, resulted in a verdict of $5 damages for the plaintiff. The court has decided that the defendant pay full costs.

In the Quarter Sessions, in a case relating to the above, on application to remit a forfeited recognizance, the court ordered A. F. Gitt to pay a fine of $95 to the county and the costs of prosecution—a nol. pros. to be entered upon the order being complied with.

The Court ordered the sale of the real estate of Joseph A. Hemler by the assignee, under the new law.

Judge Logan, on Friday evening, heard arguments as to whether certain monies which had been paid into the court of Common Pleas belonged to the estate of Barnet Myers or that of Elizabeth Myers, his wife, or to both, they having made a joint will, and both deceased. HISTORY OF A RAILROAD.—Although the Pennsylvania R. R. was opened from Philadelphia to Columbia in 1831 horses were not dispensed with as motive power until 1836. Although there was continuous connection with Pittsburgh as early as 1834, it was mainly by canals and by mountain portages 1,400 feet high, and had cost $14,500,000. The Pennsylvania railroad proper, from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh, was only incorporated thirty years ago with $7,500,000 capital.

THE editor of the Public Opinion rejoices over the election of the editor of the Republican to the office of Burgess of this Borough. He evidently does not know that when any one of our citizens falls into especial disfavor, the people elect him Burgess by way of punishment. The last incumbent of the office, who is a Republican, resigned in disgust, and we doubt if the Burgess elect will be in as big a hurry to take his seat as Hayes was.—McConnelsburg Democrat.

A BIG LOAD.—Probably the largest load of grain ever brought to Hanover on a wagon, was hauled from the farm of Mr. Aaron Hershey, on the Carlisle Pike, about 2½ miles from town, on Wednesday, to the warehouse of George Young & Sons. The load consisted of 78 bags, containing 208 bushels and 51 pounds of wheat. It was drawn by 6 mules.—Herald.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR APRIL is a genuine spring number, filled with fresh and timely articles. The very brightest and sweetest spring poetry in English literature is represented in Lucy Larcom's "Songs of Spring," and Mr. Brooks's fine article on "Birds" forms a fitting welcome to the return of the merry songsters. Easter, too, is remembered by a pretty tablet, and by a very interesting article, "Curious Customs of Easter," describing the various ways in which the day is observed among different nations; and April Fool's Day gets its share of attention in a short article, with funny illustrations. Several stories in the number also seem to have been selected for their sprightly character—"Sam Clemson, the Second," by Mr. Frank R. Stockton, "Turning into Cats," with four beautifully executed pictures, and "Hans Gottenlieb, the Fiddler," being each full of fanciful jollity.

Yet all this spring-time likeness is admirably seasoned with articles of a more serious tone, but equally well-written. Besides Mr. Brook's Bird paper, Prof. Proctor's "Stars in April" and Susan Coolidge's "Illuminated Texts" furnish practical information in a pleasant way. Julia C. R. Dorr's beautiful poem throbs with true, pure sentiment, and "Caspar Deane and the 'Cinnamon'" is a stirring story of adventure, illustrated with a very striking picture. Mr. J. T. Trowbridge has a noble talk with boys on "Good-Will," in addition to the excellent installment of "His Own Master," and the little story of "Why Nellie was not Popular"—with its frank suggestions—points a most useful moral for girls.

The departments are well stocked, as usual, and the young people who are studying French will welcome the French story of "Cecile et Lulu," and find pleasure and profit in translating it.

"By their Works ye shall Know Them."

The Irishman who thought the druggist stingy because the emetic was so small, is only surpassed in his parsimonious drollery by those who persistently adhere to the use of those nauseating, disgustingly large and drastic pills, while Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, with, by their steady and gentle action on the liver, correct all torpidity, thus permanently overcoming constipation. In South America they have almost entirely superseded all other pills, and are relied on fully by the people, and often used as a preventive of the various affections of the stomach, liver, and bowels, so prevalent in that climate. Pierce's Pocket Memorandum Books are given away at drug-stores.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D.:
Dear Sir—I write to inform you that I have used your Pellets for some time, and find them to be the best medicine that I ever used. —Colonel Mosby, who has been hanging on the ragged edge of the administration ever since his functions as a guerrilla chief ended with the war, now wants to be an assistant in the attorney general's office.

—The Returning Board President complacently wraps himself in the blanket of his Civil Service Reform, and seems to feel as thoroughly disguised as the ass did in the lion's skin.

—Two such disappointments as the Widow Oliver and the Fraudulent President, following each other in rapid succession, were naturally too much for the frail, though beautiful spirit of the veteran "statesman."

—Hayes went in by fraud and already about half the Republicans in the country would like to see him put out by force.

—It is said the majority of the electoral commission incline to piety since they listened to Judge Black's benediction.

—General Butler is credited with remarking of the political situation: "We have taken a great deal of trouble and have won a defeat."

—Camel trains are being organized to carry freight over the deserts of Arizona.

—Before the next Presidential campaign opens the Radicals will be swearing that they are the only true friends the South ever had. Give them plenty of rope.

—Hoyt, chairman of the state central Republican committee, is to be the next candidate for governor, if he will accept the nomination. Don says so.

HARRISBURG LETTER.

Correspondence of the Gettysburg Compiler.

HARRISBURG, March 17, 1877.

On Monday a number of bills were read for the first time. On Tuesday, a bill repealing so much of the act of February 17, 1729, entitled an act against horse racing, so far as the same relates to the racing, pacing and trotting of horses at any exhibition or fair or at any incorporated agricultural society, or at any trial of speed under the authority of an incorporated agricultural society, driving park association or other incorporated association having in view the training, exhibition or improvement of horses, &c., passed finally; also an act to purchase a bronze bust of Washington for the state library; also one enabling married women whose husbands are lunatics to dispose of their separate estate; also one repealing so much of the act as authorizes the prothonotaries of the several counties to charge a commission on all moneys paid into court. Quite a number of bills passed second reading, of which we shall take notice when they come up for final action. The Senate has passed finally the bill to permit defendants to testify in criminal cases. The bill to prevent negligent injury to the property of livery stable keepers by bailees; one fixing the pay of jurors summoned for services in the courts of records of this commonwealth. This fixes their pay at $2 per day. One empowering the sheriffs and prothonotaries of the several counties of the commonwealth to sue for their fees. The Senate has also passed the general appropriation bills, and next week will act on House bills, dropping their own calendar. The House will act altogether on Senate bills, and both bodies will adjourn on the 23d.

On Monday evening the bill to ascertain and appoint the fees to be received by sheriffs, coroners, prothonotaries and recorders of deeds in this commonwealth passed second reading. This bill makes a reduction of about 30 per cent. in fees of the county officers named. Counties containing over 150,000 inhabitants are exempt from its provisions.

Tuesday the following bills passed finally—one regulating the licenses of the commonwealth. This bill makes the licenses of beer houses, eating houses and restaurants range from $50 to $600. For general dealers other than dealers in liquors and patent medicines the licenses from $7 to $1,000. License rates for distillers and brewers range from $120 per annum on sales of $100,000, to $25 on sales of $2,000. Billiard and bowling saloons, bagatelle and shuffle boards, $30 each. The bills making appropriations to various institutions were then acted upon; also a bill, providing for a commission to have statues of William Penn and Benjamin Franklin executed and placed in the old hall of the House of Representatives in the capitol of the United States and appropriating therefor $17,000. Bills on second reading were then taken up and one taxing dogs $1 and bitches $5 passed second reading. A bill determining the residence of the owners and occupants of land where the dividing line between a township and a borough passes through the mansion house and prescribing the duties of assessors in such cases; to provide for the review of criminal cases in the supreme court; an act to prevent the sale of articles of traffic or merchandise within one mile of any camp meeting held for religious worship within this commonwealth; and to prohibit banks and banking institutions from paying interest on deposits. The House held a special session for the reception of petitions, &c., and quite a large number were presented, after which a motion was made that a special session be held on Thursday evening to consider the Local Option bill, which gave rise to considerable sparring, and on a vote being taken the motion was lost. Thursday the Ohio river improvement bill was returned from the Senate with amendments, which were concurred in and the bill has now passed both houses finally. Quite a number of bills were considered on second reading, among them one to permit the electors of the city of Philadelphia and of each county in this commonwealth to vote every three years on the question of granting licenses to sell intoxicating liquors.

Mr. Irvin, of Butler, moved to amend by striking out all after the enacting clause and inserting a bill (which he sent to the clerk's desk and had read) which submits the question to a vote of the people of the whole state, instead of by counties at the general election in November, every three years.

Mr. Long offered an amendment providing that any county that votes against license shall reimburse distillers, brewers and other liquor dealers for losses sustained by reason of this bill. Defeated.

Messrs. Irvin, Morgan of Lawrence, Patton of Indiana, and Brooks, spoke in favor of Mr. Irvin's amendment. During the discussion the most disgraceful confusion prevailed in the hall of the House, which seemed transformed into a loosely managed lunatic asylum. The voices of the speakers were for the most part drowned by loud laughter and jeers so that it was difficult to get a clear idea of their argument. In vain the speaker pounded with his gavel and called upon the sergeant-at-arms to preserve order. It was generally conceded to be the most disgraceful scene that ever occurred in the not too savory history of the Pennsylvania legislature. Mr. Irvin's substitute was defeated by the following vote: Yeas 68—nays 109.

The House held another special session, and as with all the special sessions the proceedings were more dishonorable than otherwise. In fact the House during the most of the day acted more like a rabble than a legislative body. A large number of House local bills were then taken up and passed. Friday, this being the last day for House bills, much disorder and confusion prevailed. A number of bills passed, all of which I have noticed before. The usury bill and that creating a board of Public Safety, known as the police bill for Philadelphia, were defeated. Out of 550 bills favorably reported, only 44 have passed and gone to the Senate. The newspapers made a terrible ado about the Democratic body of the last two years doing so little and acting so disorderly, but nothing that occurred then equalled the scenes of the past few days. So disgraceful were some of the proceedings that one of the new members asked the speaker whether this was a rabble or a deliberative body. Mr. Shell, Speaker pro tem. said he was at a loss to reply, but he believed it was more of a rabble than anything else.

Both houses convened on Monday evening, and after the reading of the journals a communication from the Governor was received in both houses, stating that Hon. Simon Cameron had resigned as U. S. Senator, and consequently a vacancy existed. This was predicted some time since, and when Don could not retain the coveted place in the cabinet of Mr. Hayes, his loving father was willing to step down and out in order that his son might be a Senator, as it might possibly be that when the old gentleman's time expired neither one of them could be elected, and as the Republican members of the present Legislature had proved themselves so subservient it was thought that now was the time if ever. The House passed a resolution that they go go into an election for U. S. Senator on Tuesday next at 3 P. M.

The Republicans held a caucus on Tuesday, when Don was nominated to succeed his father with but one vote for anyone else, that being for Mr McMichael. This hurried action was taken so that the few discontents could be whipped into the traces before they could hear from their constituents. This contest has attracted to the city a number of the prominent politicians of the Republican party. We see Morton McMichael, Wm. R. Leeds, Wm. H. Kemble, C. L. Magee, Jas. S. Rutan, A. S. Heistand, R. W. Mackey and others.

The Democratic members of the Legislature nominated for U. S. Senator, the Hon. A. B. Dill, of Union county. He has had an experience of ten years in both branches of the Legislature, and is a gentleman of large ability and undoubted integrity. His nomination is a flattering testimonial, but one well deserved.

In the contested case of Agnew vs. Haslett from Forest county the House committee on elections has decided to report in favor of Mr. Agnew, the Republican contestant. This partisan result has been reached by the committee in defiance of the decision of an able and upright Republican judge after a full and patient investigation of the case. In November Mr. Agnew was defeated by four votes. He took his case to the courts, where the majority for Mr. Haslett was increased to upwards of fifty votes. Hereafter a contestant for a seat, after failing in the courts, will have only to appeal to the election committee of the House with entire confidence of a decision in his favor, no matter how impudent or dishonest his claim. ADAMS.

ABOUT two weeks ago a stranger giving his name as Mangus hired a horse and buggy at the livery of Ziegler & Holtzworth, in this place, and pretended to start out to buy a lot of fresh cows; but, instead, he drove to Harrisburg, and sold the team at the mean figure of $30. He was arrested and put in jail there on suspicion of being a thief, but after four days was released. The buggy has been recovered, with the harness and robe, but the mare was sent to Baltimore and bought by a North Carolina dealer. The real name of the thief is supposed to be Haman. He has but one eye, and speaks broken English.

THE mill of the gods is already beginning to grind! Curses loud and deep follow the appointment of a negro as marshal of the district. Men who were most blatant in his praise before the election, and most anxious to use him as a frequent voter, are now fiercely indignant at his promotion. But they should not rashly abuse the President. He is consistent in his policy, and is only carrying out the Republican theory. The Radicals all said that the colored brother was an important factor in our new civilization, and Mr. Hayes hastens to show them exactly how full of gospel truth their teaching was. They cheated him into the presidential chair, and now they want him to cheat the poor African, for whom his heart bleeds. But he respectfully declines the invitation.—Balt. Gazette.

THE Tribune's special says that Southern Republicans now in Washington are very much discouraged at their prospects. Ex-Representatives Morey and Smith of Louisiana construe the reported intentions of Mr. Hayes to withdraw the troops from the building adjoining the state house in New Orleans as an abandonment of the Republican party South, and they both say that if this is done and Packard is not recognized affirmatively, Louisiana in the next election will give a Democratic majority of 80,000, and that the Republican organization and Republican voters will entirely disappear.

IN the opinion of the New York Herald the President's first mistake was in making Fred Douglass marshal of the District of Columbia. His proper place was collector of the port of Boston.

IF any man thinks the Republican position the better of the two he is welcome to his exaltation, and in common decency ought to sign his name at once to a petition for the release of Tweed.—N. Y. World.

SCHENCK'S STANDARD REMEDIES.
The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic, and Schenck's Mandrake Pills, and if taken before the lungs are destroyed a speedy cure is effected. To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary disease.
The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.
To enable the pulmonic syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.
Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative; the alkali of which it is composed mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the pulmonic syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.
All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday.
Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country.

PASSMORE & COPE'S
AMMONIATED
Super-Phosphate OF LIME.
MANUFACTURED BY
Passmore & Cope, Oxford, Chester County, Pa.
We warrant all the materials used in its manufacture to possess high fertilizing value. For the past five years the above brand of
HIGH GRADE SUPER-PHOSPHATE
has been largely patronized by many prominent and reliable farmers in Adams county, to whom we confidently refer. Their
UNIVERSAL TESTIMONY
strengthens and sustains our assertion that it is not merely a stimulant, but on the other hand a
PERMANENT IMPROVER
of the soil, comparable only to lime and manure, and much more economical than either. In order to make
FARMING PROFITABLE
every acre cultivated must be made to produce abundantly. This can only be accomplished by the liberal use of a durable fertilizer; and we desire all who wish to improve their farms and raise
LARGE CROPS
to give our phosphate a fair and honest trial, and we are confident that our claims will be fully sustained and that your judgment will rank it with the VERY BEST
commercial fertilizers now before the public, and equal if not superior to many brands sold at much higher prices. One very important consideration to the farmer is that it
DRILLS SPLENDIDLY,
being dry and fine—no hard lumps—no smear—needs no sifting or additional preparation—is always ready for action—and its quick acting properties rather improved than otherwise by lying from one season to another, as it then becomes still more thoroughly decomposed.
ORIGINAL STANDARD
fully maintained and guaranteed, and the mechanical condition very materially
IMPROVED.
In view of the large increase of our business we have added greatly to our facilities of manufacture, and are now prepared to make the following
REDUCTION IN PRICE:
Our fertilizer is put up in sacks containing 200 pounds each, 10 to the ton, and to encourage its further introduction we have decided for this season only to sell it in any quantity at ton rates—a single sack at $4.80, and
$48 PER TON,
delivered at the R. R. Company's warehouse, Gettysburg, or to any Rail Road station in this or adjoining counties where full car loads of 12 tons are sold.
TO AVOID DISAPPOINTMENT
all orders should be given early in the season, so that we may be prepared to fill them promptly. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Correspondence solicited. Address all communication to

SCHENCK'S STANDARD REMEDIES.

The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic, and Schenck's Mandrake Pills, and if taken before the lungs are destroyed a speedy cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary disease.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the pulmonic syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative; the alkali of which it is composed mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the pulmonic syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday.

Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country.

PASSMORE & COPE'S
AMMONIATED
Super-Phosphate
OF LIME.

MANUFACTURED BY
Passmore & Cope, Oxford, Chester County, Pa.

We warrant all the materials used in its manufacture to possess high fertilizing value. For the past five years the above brand of

HIGH GRADE SUPER-PHOSPHATE

has been largely patronized by many prominent and reliable farmers in Adams county, to whom we confidently refer. Their

UNIVERSAL TESTIMONY

strengthens and sustains our assertion that it is not merely a stimulant, but on the other hand a

PERMANENT IMPROVER

of the soil, comparable only to lime and manure, and much more economical than either. In order to make

FARMING PROFITABLE

every acre cultivated must be made to produce abundantly. This can only be accomplished by the liberal use of a durable fertilizer; and we desire all who wish to improve their farms and raise to give our phosphate a fair and honest trial, and we are confident that our claims will be fully sustained and that your judgment will rank it with the

LARGE CROPS

VERY BEST

commercial fertilizers now before the public, and equal if not superior to many brands sold at much higher prices. One very important consideration to the farmer is that it being dry and fine—no hard lumps—no tear—needs no sifting or additional preparation—is always ready for action—and its quick acting properties rather improved than otherwise by lying from one season to another, as it then becomes still more thoroughly decomposed.

ORIGINAL STANDARD

fully maintained and guaranteed, and the mechanical condition very materially

IMPROVED.

In view of the large increase of our business we have added greatly to our facilities of manufacture, and are now prepared to make the following

REDUCTION IN PRICE:

Our fertilizer is put up in sacks containing 200 pounds each, 10 to the ton, and to encourage its further introduction we have decided for this season only to sell it in any quantity at ton rates—a single sack at $4.80, or delivered at the R. R. Company's warehouse, Gettysburg, or to any Rail Road station in this or adjoining counties where full car loads of 12 tons are sold.

TO AVOID DISAPPOINTMENT

orders should be given early in the season, so that we may be prepared to fill them promptly. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Correspondence solicited. Address all communication to

A SPEAKING TELEGRAPH.

We have heretofore given accounts of the wonderful success of Professor Bell in transmitting the vibrations of the human voice by electrical means over a telegraph wire. He has lately made improvements in his method of transmission, by which he dispenses with the use of the battery, and substitutes the magneto-electric plan of producing the current. The Boston Transcript describes a recent experiment with the new apparatus, by which conversation and singing was successfully carried on between Boston and Malden, a distance of six miles. The telephone, in its present form, consists of a powerful compound permanent magnet, to the poles of which are attached ordinary telegraph coils of insulated wire. In front of the poles, surrounded by these coils of wire, is placed a diaphragm of iron. A mouthpiece to converge the sound upon this diaphragm substantially completes the arrangement. As is well known, the motion of steel or iron in front of the poles of a magnet creates a current of electricity in coils surrounding the poles of the magnet, and the duration of this current of electricity coincides with the duration of the motion of the steel or iron moved or vibrated in the proximity of the magnet. When the human voice causes the diaphram to vibrate, electrical undulations are induced in the coils environing the magnets, precisely analogous to the undulations of the air produced by that voice. These coils are connected with the line wire which may be of any length, provided the insulations be good. The undulations which are induced by these coils travel through the line wire, and passing through the coils of an instrument of precisely similar construction at the distant station, are again resolved into air undulations by the diaphragm of this instrument.

The experiments were as follows: Telephones having been connected with the private telegraphic line of the Boston Rubber Shoe Company, conversation was at once commenced. Stationed at the Boston end of the wire, Professor Bell requested Mr. Watson, who was at the Malden end, to speak in loud tones, with a view of enabling the entire company at once to distinguish the sounds.

This was so successful that a smile of mingled pleasure and surprise played on the features of those present. That it, however, might not be supposed that loud speaking was essential to intelligibility, Mr. Bell explained that soft tones could be heard across the wires even more distinctly than loud utterances, even a whisper being audible. In confirmation of this statement, Mr. Watson commenced speaking in turn with each member of the company; and after the efficiency of this method had been proved to the satisfaction of all, he took up a newspaper and informed the assemblage that gold had closed the previous evening at New York at 105¼. As there were quite a number of business men present the effect that this practical demonstration of the value of the telephone produced can hardly be exaggerated.

Other passages from the daily journals were then given, and by this time the desire for conversation having become general, Mr. Watson was plied with questions such as: "Is it thawing or freezing at Malden?" Who will be the next President?" etc. It was remarkable that Mr. Watson was able to distinguish between the voices at the Boston end, he calling at least one gentleman by name as soon as the latter commenced speaking.

This went on for some time, until a lady at the Malden end sent the company an invitation to lunch per telephone, and an appropriate response was made by the same medium. At length the Boston company were requested to remain quiet while a lady at the other end conveyed to them the sweet strains of music. The assemblage thereupon listened with rapt attention while a young lady commenced singing "The Last Rose of Summer." The effect was simply charming. The sound of the voice penetrated into the Boston end of the telephone with a distinctness equal to that attainable in the more distant parts of a large concert room, and a unanimous vote of thanks was sent by the handy little instrument which had procured for the assemblage so agreeable an hour.—Scientific American.

A GOOD many simple-minded persons are inclined to believe that the millenium of Civil Service Reform is about to come in under the auspices of the new Administration. We would not advise such people to be too precipitate—the very first appointment which Hayes sent to the Senate was that of Wm. M. Stone, late Attorney-General of South Carolina and ex-officio and actively a member of the Returning Board which counted the vote of that State for Hayes. Mr. Stone was one of the distinguished persons put in jail by the Supreme Court of South Carolina and released on habeas corpus by the notorious Judge Bond.—Baltimore Evening Bulletin.

THE Republican party stands to-day before the country branded by its own act as the party of Fraud. It has seated a President at Washington in defiance of the popular will, by the avowed help of the basest of mankind, and through an unparalleled degradation of the highest tribunal in the land.—N. Y. World.

COL. BOB INGERSOLL after doing all in his power to foster sectional animosity and hatred, now eloquently appeals for a policy of peace and reconciliation. He finds that while hate may serve to win ballots from bigots and blockheads it will not do as the governing motive of an administration.

Will it Pay to Use a Good Super-Phosphate?

MARCH 8, 1877.

C. J. TYSON: Dear Sir,—We have been using Passmore & Cope's Ammoniated Super-Phosphate for a number of years and very cheerfully recommend it as a first-class Fertilizer, and in our opinion cheaper than any other we can use. In the fall of 1874 we tried it with the most gratifying results on the farm purchased from the Widow Group, about two miles above Bendersville, in Menallen township. We put out a field in wheat on this farm containing about nine acres, that had been in corn; all the litter worked out of it and just about as poor as it could be. We drilled in 200 pounds of Phosphate to the acre with the wheat, and sowed with grass seed. In 1875 we harvested 159 bushels of nice wheat, about 18½ bushels to the acre; in 1876 (first mowing) we made 15 large loads of hay (fully 15 tons) and cut 20 bushels of clover-seed. The sod now on the field is well worth all the Phosphate cost to the next corn crop, saying nothing of the crops removed. This we think sufficient evidence of its durability, as no other manure has been applied to the field since it came into our possession. We are confident that without the Phosphate we would not have had 50 bushels of wheat on the field, and no grass, as the spots left without Phosphate are nearly bare.
WM. BREAM, Butler twp.,
SAMUEL BREAM, Menallen twp.

We can testify to the correctness of the above statement.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored!

Just published; new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates from thirty year's successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself, cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

FARM AND HOUSE.

HAY FOR HENS.

The Poultry World advises the use of hay in the diet of fowls in winter, as they eat grass to advantage in summer. Bulk in food is required of animals. Rich and concentrated food is not readily digested and invites disease. Some think a craving for bulky food is one chief cause of feather eating in winter, or among fowls confined. Now, just try and secure a good supply of second crop hay, short, and, if possible, containing clover. Cure only enough to preserve, and your fowls will eat a portion of it all winter when they would turn away from stale cabbage. What is not eaten will furnish untold amusement in scratching over. Remember in winter, if poultry stand on one leg unemployed, all day, they are disposed to have the blues. Idle meditations lead away to bad habits; while a healthy mind, in a vigorous body, suggests business, which, with fowls, means winter eggs and early chickens. The above advice is good, although few supposed hens would eat hay if given them, but this is because they have not watched the habits of their poultry. We have noticed them often picking short bits of cut hay of almost any variety, and hay cooked for cattle is eaten greedily by them. We advise short cut clover well boiled for them. Clover is better than any other hay because it possesses egg making nutriment, besides fibre to separate the particles of grain. It is not bulk, as mere quantity, that is needed, but coarse fibre to separate the concentrated food in the stomach, so that the gastric juice can circulate through the mass. The stomach cannot well manage solid food. Only a few minutes will be required to prepare this hay for a large number of poultry.—National Live Stock Journal.

SOWING SEEDS.—The spring is about on us, and seed-sowing in the garden and on the farm will soon be here. As myriads of seeds are wasted every year, a few hints may be seasonable and serviceable.

The most successful sower we ever knew lets his garden ground get a little dry before sowing. Then he stretches the line along where the seeds are to go, sows the seeds on the surface, and then walks sideways along the line, pressing the seeds with his "flat foot." He says he never has a seed to miss, and so sows them thinly just where every plant is to grow. There is not only no waste of seed, but no waste in thinning. There is no raking in of the seed and the whole is as simple as possible. His wife is a good flower gardener. Her mignonette and phloxes always grow, and a ten cent paper is enough for the whole garden. She sows on the surface, "pats" down, as she says, the earth with the back of her cast-steel trowel, puts a stick with the name in the centre of the little patch, and they sprout at once.

Now this is all reasonable enough when we think of it. There are lots of people who believe that rag-weed and other rubbish will keep seed fresh for years when but plowed down a few inches. Whether this is so or not, deep sowing is known to be unfavorable to germination. Seed like to be near the air, but near the moisture too, and all that is necessary to this is that they be pressed firmly in the ground. Of course the seeds need not be "tramped" in. There are ways enough of covering seed properly with implements. We only refer to our friend's experience for the lesson it teaches.—Germantown Telegraph.

RATS.—Almost every farmer is troubled with rats, either at his barn or in his house. A correspondent of the Practical Farmer gives the following which he calls the German plan, and recommends it after several years trial as safe and successful:—Mix calcined plaster such as plasterers use to make "hard finish" on walls, one-third of the plaster with two-thirds cornmeal, mix dry, and place it where it will keep dry, under stable floor for instance; the action of the mixture, as soon as it comes in contact with the moisture of the stomach, is this: The plaster sets, becomes stone, and death to the rat is the sure result, and should your pigs, cats or dogs eat the rats, no trouble will ensue, as the plaster is already set. Poultry readily grind it in their crops.

A neighbor to whom I had given a lot of plaster, a few days ago rushed over to know if it would kill pigs; his boy had put a handful of the preparation into a pail of milk, and fed the pigs. No trouble followed, for the milk set the plaster before it reached the pig's trough.

BREEDING FOR HEIFER CALVES.—Hon. John Merryman, of Baltimore county, Md., in his Hereford Catalogue, says:—After having had nineteen bull calves out of twenty-six dropped in 1852, I called my friend Mr. Wm. C. Wilson's attention to the fact. He informed me the practice upon the Island of Jersey was, when heifer calves were desired, to have the cow served while her udder was full, and immediately before the hour of milking. I adopted the practice, and my experience has been satisfactory, a heavy milker proving the most certain to bring a heifer calf.

A LAUNDRY RECIPE.—The following recipe for doing up shirts will be found of use to many housewives: Take two ounces of fine white gum arabic powder; put it into a pitcher and pour on it a pint or so of water; and then, having covered it up, let it stand all night. In the morning pour it carefully from the dregs into a clean bottle, and cork it and keep it for use. A tablespoon of gum water stirred into a pint of starch made in the usual manner, will give to the lawns, either white or printed, a look of newness, when nothing else can restore them, after they have been washed.—Herald of Health.

OATS AND PEAS, sown together, produce a very nutricious fodder. The two crops together, upon one acre of good soil, will yield nearly, if not quite, as much fodder as would an acre of each sown separately. We have sown two bushels of oats and six pecks of peas to the acre. If sown early, the fodder may be cut for soiling cows or horses in May or June, and a succession for continuous use may be sown every two weeks until early in May. Roll the ground after sowing, so that the crop may be cut with a mower, which may easily be done, as the oats support the peas and prevent lodging.

BAKED INDIAN PUDDING.—One quart sweet milk, boiled; pour into a pudding pan and thicken with meal and a handful of flour about as stiff as for griddles; one teaspoonful salt, two-thirds of a cupful molasses. Quartered sweet apples are an improvement. Bake this till red, which will require at least four hours.

TO ALL!

DR. SWAYNE,

The Discoverer and Compounder of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and other valuable preparations, entered upon his profession a career with the important advantage of a regular Medical Education in one of the oldest and best schools in Philadelphia, and, perhaps, in the world. He subsequently served a full term of practice in the Philadelphia Dispensary, and for many years attended also in the hospital. In these institutions he enjoyed the most ample opportunities of obtaining an insight into diseases in all their various forms, as well as for ascertaining the best methods of their treatment. In offering, therefore, to the people of the United States the fruit of his extensive professional experience in the medical compounds as the best results of his skill and observation, he feels that he is not proffering a boon to every family, throughout the land, resting, as he does, confidently, in the merits and efficacious virtue of the remedies he herewith commends. The vast amount of testimony from all parts of the world has proven "DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY" the most efficacious remedy known, and is is adopted by our most eminent physicians, and all who have witnessed its wonderful effects ... Wild Cherry ... its great power to overcome the worst and most distressing diseases among us was never fully ascertained until the experiments of that skillful physician, Dr. Swayne, had demonstrated its high adaptation, in combination with Pine Tree Tar, and other valuable vegetable ingredients which, chemically combined, renders its action ten-fold more certain and beneficial in curing all diseases of the throat, breast and lungs. DR. SWAYNE'S WILD CHERRY COMPOUND strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood, restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous and shattered constitution.

COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

ADAMSTOWN, Lancaster Co., Pa.

DR. SWAYNE & SON, Gentlemen:—About two years ago my wife was suffering from consumption, and during her sickness had the best medical attendance in this and adjoining counties. Her case was pronounced hopeless by all of them. I was induced through the recommendation of your agent, Dr. Isaac R. Miller, of West Brecknock, Berks county, Pa., and who can verify these facts, to try Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry. After using it for some time, she was entirely cured, and is now as well as ever, and fully able to perform her usual labor. I am so fully satisfied that it is your preparation that I am indebted for her restoration to health, that I grant you full liberty to give the case publicity, in the hope that others now suffering may derive benefit from her experience.

Yours respectfully,

ITCHING PILES!

Is generally preceded by a moisture, like perspiration, distressingly itching, as though pin worms were crawling in and about the rectum, particularly at night, when undressing, or in bed after getting warm. It appears in summer as well as winter, and is not confined to males only, but it is quite as frequent that females are sorely afflicted, particularly in times of pregnancy, extending into the vagina, proving distressing almost beyond the powers of endurance. Cases of long standing, pronounced incurable, have been permanently cured by simply applying

London Hair RESTORER

1—It will restore gray hair to its original color.
2—It will thicken thin hair; cause a new growth.
3—It will restore the natural secretions.
4—It will remove all dandruff and itchings.
5—It will make the hair soft, glossy, and flexible.
6—It will preserve the original color to old age.
7—It will prevent the hair from falling off.
8—It will cure all diseases of the scalp.

It restores both the luxuriance and color of the hair, and is as harmless as water. Premature blanching or fading of the hair is greatly to be regretted, and that everybody wants to be beautiful is proof enough that it is wise and right to try to be so, by every proper means; but there is nothing more important than beautiful hair. Now to prevent the falling of the natural coloring matter in it, or reexcite the roots of the hair to grow again, nothing has been introduced to the American people that equals the

INVALIDS,

Don't Despair!

Thousands have found relief, and thousands will turn to this Medicine, after exhausting their purses and patience in search of health. Giddiness of the head, dullness of the mind, foul breath, coated tongue, loss of appetite, pains and weakness in the stomach, enlargement of the liver, yellowness of the skin, constant fever and thirst, with a total disrelish for business, pleasure, or any kind of employment. FAHRNEY'S PANACEA if taken and persevered in for a few days, will remove this whole class of symptoms. The fluids of the body become pure, and mind clear, the stomach strengthened, the tongue clean, the appetite improved, and the whole system benefitted that disease, in bad weather, is less liable to afflict you.

Trade Dr. P. FAHRNEY'S Mark

Celebrated

Blood Cleanser or Panacea.

As one that is to children, the Panacea is in every way, calculated to take the place of the endless variety of drugs which are annually sold for that purpose, and which, are often very injurious. A medicine which possesses the qualities of a cathartic ... and which is capable of arresting disease without the least injury to the child, is of incalculable value to every mother. As a cathartic, it is very effective, yet it does not, if given in proper quantities, cause nausea or distress in the stomach or bowels. It is very pleasant to the taste, which is a very important feature as a medicine for children. As a preventive of disease it is unprecedented, as it acts directly upon the digestive organs and the blood. In all scrofulous diseases, it is the most effective medicine ever offered to the public; and, if given regularly and perseveringly, those eruptive diseases so common to children may be entirely eradicated.

Prepared by P. Fahrney's Bros. & Co., Waynesboro', Pa., and Dr. P. FAHRNEY, 30 North Dearborn street, Chicago. For sale by wholesale and retail dealers, and by A. D. BUEHLER and J. M. HUBER Gettysburg.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

THE undersigned, having leased this eligibly located Hotel, on Baltimore street, only a few doors from the Court-house, in the pleasant town of Gettysburg, asks his old friends and the public to give him a call. The rooms are all large and airy, and furnished in the best and latest style—beds not to be surpassed anywhere. His table shall always have the best of the season, and the bar none but choice liquors. Ample stabling attached, with an attentive hostler.

Charges moderate. The undersigned flatters himself that with his long experience in the hotel business and desire to please, all guests at the Central will be more than satisfied with the treatment, fare and bills.
